Hunt's Remedy-Its Many Merits.

There are no diseases more prevalent, with, per try han the Kidney and Liver complaints; and to fluid a remedy that would effectually relieve them has long been the aim of many afflicted sufferers. Whether our habits as a people are conductive to these dissease, or whether they may result from the peculiarity of our climate, is beyond our comprehension, and is of little value aince an efficacious remedy can be had; but of one thing we are sure, that the long sillicted public will half with joy the specific which has again and egain proved its ability to effictually cope with and eradicate here disease. The name of the medicine is Hunt's Remedy, and it is manufactured by the Hunt's Remedy Compady of Providence. It is not eften that mention of patent medicine occurs in these columns; try han the Kidney and Liver complaints; and to tion of patent medicine occurs in these columns; but, when one comes under our notice possessing SILOOD POISON.

The present Judge Hutchins, of the superior court of the northeastern judicial circuit of this state, is the son of Nathaniei Hutchins, so well known by many of the older citizens of Elbert ar one the cleverest men and ablest jurists in Georgia. He was the predecessor of his son on the same bench, now occupied by Col. Hutchins, of Gwinnett, and was popularly known all through the upper portion of the state. During the progress of the superior court at Carnesville last week this amusing incident occurred! which was related to a New South scribe by Senator Phil Davis: Col. Thurmond, of Athens, an attorney, had an instrument of writing in court, the validity of which needed to be proven and which could only be done by the owner of the signature found thereon swearing to the same. The witness was called and an old gray-haired man, who had lived over his three score and ten, took the stand and Col. Thurmond handed him the paper and asked:

"Is that your signature, sir?"

The court room was in an uproar of laughter, but the old man never smiled, as he returned the glasses and left the house.

Much is heard of the barbarism of the Indians in the West, but very little is ever told of the more inexcusable acts of burbarity often practised by the white settlers, both American and Alexican. Here is an incident that recently occurred in the new and thriving city of Chihuahua, Mexico, which it is to be hoped cannot be exactly paralleled anywhere in this country. Thirty mounted men left the city to hunt Indians. They scalped eight, whom they caught unarmed, and captured a number of squaws and ponies. They then turned honeward, and reaching Chihuahua on Sunday, were publicly received on the plaza of the city by the Mayor as though they were heroes returning from a glorious war. The whole city turned out to greet them, and amid the clanging of the Cathedral bells, and the vivas of the populace they rode through the streets decked with bunting, with eight bloody scalps danggling from a pole carried by eight men. At this sckening spectacle the people were frantic with delight, and women waved their s ckening spectacle the people were frantic with delight, and women waved their bandkerchiefs in approbation of the slayers. The poor, sad faced squaws, many of them carrying their infants on their backs, only excited the contumelious scorn of this city full of Christian people: and men who called themselves brave showed their superior manhood by striking these wretched barbarian mothers and their infants as they trod their weary way in the procession. Soon after this edifying spectacle the Cathedral bells again rang for vespers, and the people of this most Christian city met within its sacred portals to worship a Being who taught the universal brotherhood of man. The squaws thus captured are imprisoned for tile, and the Government pays $200 for every Indian scalp presented to it.

What Dew Is. Exchange.

If dew fell it would fall for the same reason that rain falls; but dew does not fall. It is simply a deposit of moisture always contained in the air to a greater or less degree, and which, when there is enough of it, will always form on any cold body exposed to the moistair, in precisely the same way that a cold bottle br stone, taken from a cold cellar and sauddenly exposed in the shade to the moist, warm summer air, will become wet. This is not sweating nor does this moisture come out of the bottle or stone as many people be lieve, but from the air. It is for the s.m., reason that moisture will condense against the window panes when the air is cold outside and moist inside, the rajoiture slowly freezing while its deposits form crystal ice which is so otten admired in winter. When the weather is cold enough the moisture william, (an Indian remedy) called Dr. which is so often admired in winter. When the weather is cold enough the moisture will even freeze plants and grass, and then we call it hoar frost; if it does not freeze it is simply dew. The only point left to be explained is why does the ground become so cool during the night, so much cooler than the air above, as to cause the latter to deposit its moisture. This was for many years a svezed problem till Wells first suggested the radiation of obscure heart, which takes place from, the surface of the earth—through the—clear atmosphere into the space above, and so causes the surface to become much cooler than the air itself. He demonstrated this by means of thermometers placed at different heights, and also by the fact that dex is only deposof thermometers piaced at different heights, and also by the fact that dew is only deposited on cloudless nights. When there are clouds they reflect the heat or prevent if from escaping. The surface of the earth thus being kept from cooling, no dew is deposited.
